EVERYDAY LIFE WITH ACODE

On the way to the bus stop on a gorgeous spring morning.
A rainy day by the sea with winds at 10 metres a second.
An icy shift in the loading bay. It doesn't matter. At Acode we don't make rigid distinctions between work and leisure.

In Scandinavia you can experience four different seasons in the same day. A bitingly chilly morning can turn into a lovely warm day by lunchtime. We get high winds, torrential rain and boiling hot sunshine. Working outside without knowing what sort of weather the day might bring demands clothes that can adapt to changing weather conditions and your body.

Acode rests on the expertise of our parent company
Fristads Kansas, a company that has been supplying heavy workwear made for performance since 1925.

The same thinking runs through Acode's DNA, here in lighter workwear. Our clothing is made for people who live an active life, at work and at leisure.

Wearing Acode, you know you are well set to cope with the challenges the day throws at you without needing to compromise.

COMFORTABLE WORKWEAR FOR THE TRUE PROFESSIONAL

Fristads Kansas products are durable, functional and aimed to service craftsmen and industry workers alike. Whether it is workwear trousers, workwear jackets or even high visibility garments, Fristads Kansas offer only the absolute best.

LIFE BY THE SWEDISH COAST

TRÄSLÖVSLÄGE

BY TOBIAS EKELUND & KLAS SVENSSON

In Scandinavia we love water and the open sea. Almost half of Sweden's population lives within ten kilometres of the coast – on a fraction of the country's land area – while three-quarters live within a fifty kilometre radius.

The water brings out a sense of peace, giving us mental calm. It lowers stress levels and unleashes creativity. The powers might be in a bad mood and sometimes shower us with rain and storms but the benefits far outweigh that.

A number of studies have shown that living with open views and wide horizons is good for us. We need a calm break from today's lightning-fast society, and the sea gives us that. Reflections of the light and the water create a sense of wellbeing and spread joy.

Although many people today voluntarily choose to live by the sea, things were different in the past. Life on the coast could be tough at times. People earned their livelihoods from fishing, constantly exposed to weather and wind.

Today's fishing industry operates on a large scale but there are still fishing villages where time has stood still. We visited Träslövsläge on the Swedish west coast.

A COMMUNITY THAT HAS LEARNED TO RIDE THE WAVES

Träslövsläge is an old fishing village with many faces. Located just south of Varberg on the Swedish west-coast, it is battered by the strong west winds of the North Sea every autumn. Since the 1950s the village has been a place of pilgrimage for holidaymakers from different parts of the country every summer. The village has charm, with its authentic, large fishing harbour, combined with its narrow winding lanes with their charming, wind-blown houses making their way up and down through a maze of streets. The houses – nestling protected from the wind behind crowded alleyways, stone walls and high hedges – have made Träslövsläge a favourite of many holidaymakers longing for the sea. This almost unique setting, which emerged with the growth of tourism, while the large fishing harbour continues to have a given place in the modern community, creates an atmosphere that combines the relaxed charm of the old fishing village with the entertainment and beach life offered by growing tourism.

TYPICAL SWEDISH SEA FOOD

Langoustines (raw): 8
Butter (room temperature): 150 g
Garlic: 1 bulb
Shallots: 1
Parsley: 1 pot
Lemon: half
Västerbotten cheese: 50 g

LANGOUSTINES TOPPED WITH VÄSTERBOTTEN CHEESE

Heat the oven to 250°C. Peel and finely chop the shallot and garlic. Chop the parsley. Grate the Västerbotten cheese. Put the butter, onion, garlic and parsley in a bowl. Squeeze the lemon. Mix well. Halve the langoustines lengthwise. Place them in an ovenproof dish with the shell side downwards. Spread the butter mixture over the top. Sprinkle the cheese over the top. Bake in the oven for about 5 minutes.

If you love being active in wet, windy and cold weather conditions, it's essential to wear the right clothes. Wearing different layers means moisture can be wicked away from the body while keeping wind and water at bay. This keeps your body warm and dry even in tough conditions.

CATCHING THE SWEDISH WAVES

You'll find the best spot for surfing in Sweden in little Varberg, a spot said to be one of the fifth top surfing locations in Europe. Lots of people have discovered how fun it is to surf from the beach at Träslövsläge where the waves roll in in a perfect south/south-west direction at a right angle to the beach.

This might be where you'll find the best surfing in the Nordic countries, whether it's surfing the waves, kitesurfing or windsurfing. The bay is inviting, with a soft sandy bottom, practically free from stones on the northernmost part of the beach. Riding and breaking the high waves has become something we often associate with Hawaii and California but in recent years, water sports have gained increasing numbers of fans in Europe. Scandinavians are also discovering great waves on their doorstep too.

So if you're tired of sunny beaches and turquoise waters, a long weekend in Varberg on the west coast, with a few prayers to the weather gods to bring on the dancing waves, might be utterly magical.

GOOD TO HAVE

WETSUIT

At least a 6/5/4 mm suit (6 mm rubber in the body, 5 mm in the arms, 4 for the legs. Sealed seams, look for GBS, welded seams or liquid tape. Look for suits with polypropylene lining. This fabric keeps moisture away from the skin, keeping you dry and warm. Buy a tight one, avoiding cold water to sluice in.

MORE ACCESSORIES

A good hood, most of your body heat leaks out of your head.

Booties. Thin or thick soles, how much contact do you need with your board?

Gloves. After a freezing winter surf you really want to manage to take that selfie, great if fingers are working, right?

Use some ear plugs, man. Saves you from that dreadful Surfer's Ear.

"Everyone has done the tropics. Cold-water surfing is the new black."

Timothy Latte, swedish pro surfer

11th of january the Baltic Sea presented the largest wave ever, 14,2 meter. That's what we call a real challenge!

Kåsa, Varberg. The "Surfing capital" of Sweden. Ekeviken, Fårö, Gotland. Salusands havsbad, Önsköldsvik. Really great waves during the autumn storms. Vik, Simrishamn, Skåne. Målle, Kullahalvön, Skåne. Swedens oldest spot. Torö Stenstrand.

NORWAY: Salstein. One of the best spots in Norway. Bring a thick wetsuit, the water is freezing cold. Hovden. Great waves coming in from the Norwegian Sea, white sandy beaches and steep cliffs. Perfect! Hoddevika. Popular for surfers from all over the world due to the tall mountains surrounding the spot protecting it from heavy winds. Storvika.

FINLAND: Pori. The most well-known surf spot. Some days you can even surf in some of

Finland's biggest lakes like Päijänne

DENMARK: Agger. A long stretch of sandy beaches, provides some of the heaviest waves around. Klitmøller, "Cold Hawaii". This iconic area is the backbone of surfing in Denmark. Main spots are The Reef, The Bay and Bunkers. Hanstholm. Surf your way down the coast line and explore the best of Danish surfing.

FIGHT WATER

Are you planning outdoor activities and want to keep warm and dry? Then make sure you buy waterproof garments. Water column, a value given in millimetres, is often mentioned in the garment's specification but what does it mean?

Water column is a measure that is used to specify how large a water pressure a garment will withstand before it starts to leak. The material is tested for waterproof qualities using a "water column", a tube with a diameter of approx. 2.5 cm. While the tube is placed vertically onto the material, water is poured in. The height of the water when the material starts to leak is then recorded. A water column value of 10,000 mm means a load of 10 metres water depth in the tube.

1 | 0

Not waterproof.

2 | 0–2000

Can be water resistant, but not waterproof.

3 | 2000–5000

Waterproof against rain, but not resistant to pressure. Leaks when sitting or leaning against wet surfaces.

4 | 5000–15000

Fully waterproof in rain and resistant to many forms of pressure. Only at very high pressure, for example, prolonged sitting begins to leak the material.

5 | 15000–30000

Fully waterproof, even under the most extreme pressure.

OUR THREE PRODUCT LEVELS

BaseCamp

Well-dressed and sporty. Then you need clothes in comfortable, airy materials with details giving you that little bit extra. Gives you all you need to feel fine and comfortable.

Advanced

Smart details and practical functions allow you to move freely and comfortably in all weathers and environments. Protects you from the cold and lets your body breathe.

Summit

Our top collection. Details that give you a better feeling, make the experience more memorable and create that special sense of security. The result of several stages of product development and efforts to give you the very best.

ENJOY THE WEATHER – DRESS LAYER ON LAYER!

For those who enjoy an active life in wet, windy and cold conditions, dressing correctly is vital. By using different layers of clothing, moisture can be transported away from the body while water and wind are kept out, meaning that your body stays warm and dry, even in tough weather.

THE BASE LAYER worn next to the body. Transports moisture away from the body and keeps you dry.

THE MIDDLE LAYER insulates and warms while letting moisture from the base layer pass through.

SHELL LAYER protects against the wind and wet, but lets excess body heat escape.

MATERIAL

CoolPass

Our garments in CoolPass functional material are worn next to the body, effectively transporting moisture away from the skin to the outer layer of the garment, where it evaporates from the skin. Perfect for physical activity.

DoubleFace

Our sweatshirt gives you that little bit extra. Double faced means that the outside of the fabric is identical to that on the reverse. A slightly thicker sweatshirt material that offers an exclusive finish while retaining the fit.

SoftShell

The traditional softshell material is very resistant to wind and water, has a durable surface and a reverse with a membrane of soft microfleece.

SoftShell Light

Softshell Light is a very light, soft and flexible membrane-free material with 4-way stretch. It has excellent breathability and a water-repellent surface.

FUNCTION

AirWear

Acode AirWEAR has been developed to allow your body to breathe and to keep you dry and comfortable. A perfect choice for an active lifestyle.

WindWear

Acode WindWEAR is the perfect choice when you need to keep dry and warm in wind, rain and snow. Available in both unlined and lined.

SELECT & COORDINATE

IN SEVERAL WAYS

PROMOTION AND MATCHING HAS NEVER BEEN EASIER.

Acode now offer the basic colours, red, navy blue and black in a large selection of our models. Perfect for matching and promotion when you need more than one garment. Each Acode garment is made to function in a context and to make active use easier, whatever the weather. With our large range of models, it has never been easier to match and promote your company's image.

WIDER SELECTION IN LARGER AND SMALLER SIZES

The demand for slightly larger and smaller sizes has led us to add further sizes to our basic garments. This applies to T-shirts, sweatshirts and polo shirts, which are now available in the sizes XS as well as 5XL and 6XL.

WASH AT SIXTY DEGREES

Our basic assortment of sweatshirts and T-shirts has now been upgraded to withstand even tougher handling, in use and in washing. There is no problem washing these garments now at the maximum wash temperature, 60°.

Measure yourself as shown in the diagram beside this text, then look in the tables below to find your size.

All measurements stated are bust/chest, waist and hip measurements.
